Llewellyn Scholtz – Digital Education Specialist

- ⇒ Executive Director of Genesis CITI
- ⇒ Centre Manager of the I-CAN Centre
- ⇒ CEO of G-CITI Campus
- ⇒ CEO of G-CITI DIGITAL SA (Open2Study)
- ⇒ Country Manager of mELimu

Llewellyn Scholtz, wearing many strategic hats within the educational technology space has revolutionized and disrupted education through his "future thinking approach". Hi reimagination of education has championed many innovative projects, that has provoked a new way of thinking in terms of education.

Also He is the CEO of G-CITI Campus, a global certified IT College that offers industry - led training to unemployed youth. The customized curriculum developed has leaped students directly within the workplace, closing the loop of unemployment within a period of 6 months.

As the founder and Executive Director of Genesis CITI / I-CAN Centre, more than 10 000 training opportunities were created over a period of 4 years, through the I-CAN Centre, an initiative of the Western Cape Government, whereby Genesis CITI is the appointed Centre Operator. The inclusive approach towards technology has led to the potential in establishing more digital public access facilities across the country, in respect where Llewellyn leads the way in mentoring and consultation for community development using technology and sustainability. The social & education technology model developed incorporates both public and private sector as wings towards access to technology, adoption of technology and the empowerment of digital skills.

As a Digital Education expert, Llewellyn provides consultation to educational institutions in aligning vocational curriculums towards recognized global vendor certification to ensure that tertiary students become 4IR Ready for the workplace.

He also the Country Manager of the global award-winning educational technology partner mElimu that provides Africa and abroad a range of educational solutions! Llewellyn provides insight under Open2Study trademark into how Learning Management Systems & Online Examinations can be incorporated into Tertiary Institutions and Companies.

He is also a passionate and inspirational keynote speaker addressing the digital divide in South Africa. He has travel extensively across Africa in representing a unified partnership called www.4ir-skills.africa . His story is life-changing, and his insight into the future of education is revolutionary. His weekly radio show (Radio 786) has an average of 5 000 listeners tuned in per week as he educates citizens about the world of technology.

Llewellyn were recently awarded the Western Cape Entrepreneurship Recognition Award in the category of Social Enterprise, where he leads a dynamic group in changing the narrative of education in South Africa.
